A Story about Popular Drink

No one knows exactly how and when coffee was discovered. However, there are some famous stories about it. One of them is from Ethiopia* in Africa.

A long time ago, there was a goat keeper* boy named Kaldi in Ethiopia. One day, Kaldi noticed his goats were jumping cheerfully even at night. He thought it was strange, so he began to watch them carefully. The next day, he found they were eating red beans. He tried the beans, and he found that he was full of energy!

Kaldi went to a temple and told a monk* his experience. The monk heard it and decided to try it himself. He made a drink from the beans and drank it. After a while, he felt his head clearer. Then, he shared the drink with the other monks. Thanks to the wonderful drink, they could do midnight ceremonies without falling asleep.

The drink was used as a secret medicine for a long time. We know these red beans as coffee beans today.
